

Actor-pilot crashes Kamikaze-style into home of Japanese scandal figure

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese movie actor-pilot in a World War II kamikaze pilot's uniform he donned for publicity pictures crashed in a light plane today into the home of Yoshio Kodama, key figure in the Lockheed payoff scandal in Japan.

The actor, Mitsuyasu Maeno, 29, was killed in the crash. Kodama's luxurious home was set afire, but he and 11 other persons in the house were not injured.

Police said Maeno almost certainly crashed intentionally because he cut his engine and aimed the plane into Kodama's house. But they said it was not clear whether the young man hoped to kill Kodama or was bent only on his own suicide.

Maeno was flying a single-engine plane with a cameraman in another plane taking pictures of him to promote a movie he was planning to make, an official of the Nikkatsu Movie Corp. said.

The actor was wearing a World War II-type flying cap and goggles, a Rising Sun headband and a white scarf for his flying jacket, the outfit worn by the kamikaze suicide pilots who crashed their planes into American warships in the closing months of the war. And like them, Maeno shouted "Tenno Heika Banzai!" (Long Live the Emperor!) just before taking off.

But a spokesman for the Taiheiyō Flying Club, to which Maeno belonged, said this did not mean the actor was embarking on a suicide mission since he was posing for the cameraman.

Kodama, 65, is bedridden from the effects of a stroke two years ago. He was charged with tax evasion after a U.S. Senate subcommittee was told he was paid $7 million to promote the sale of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. planes in Japan. A right-wing businessman, he has been a behind-the-scenes power in the ruling Liberal-Democratic party.

Maeno took off from Chofu airport, 20 miles west of Tokyo. He flew around for an hour and a half being photographed from another plane, then reported by radio that he planned to fly over Setagaya, where Kodama lived.

There was speculation that Maeno crashed while sightseeing. But Kantaro Hamada, 45, a cartoonist who lives near Kodama, said he watched the plane through binoculars as it circled overhead and that the pilot appeared to cut the engine.

"It looked like a kamikaze crash," said Hamada.

The plane crashed into a second-floor veranda of Kodama's house, starting a fire that spread to the first floor and burned for an hour before it was brought under control. Police said Kodama's secretary moved him from the living room to another room of the house.

The Lockheed payoffs to Kodama and others in Japan have become a major scandal, and on Sunday several hundred persons demonstrated outside Kodama's house. The house is guarded by scores of young toughs from the rightist Youth Ideological Research Organization which he organized and finances.

There were new developments also in the Lockheed scandal in Italy. Gen. Duilio Fanali, the chief of the Italian air force from 1968 to 1970, and Antonio d'Ovidio Lefebvre, a Rome attorney who was Lockheed's Italian agent, were arrested in connection with a reported $1.6 million payoff for the sale of 14 C130 Hercules planes in 1970.

Fanali was charged with complicity in the purchase of the planes and acquiring illegal income while in government office, an offense punishable by 4 to 12 years in jail. He has denied receiving any payoff and said in previous testimony that the Lockheed planes were far superior to others considered and were chosen for that reason.

Lefebvre was charged with complicity. His brother, also an attorney in Rome, has been accused in the case and is believed to have fled the country along with two other prominent Romans for whom arrest warrants have been issued in connection with the scandal. Another attorney, Vittorio Antonelli, has been arrested on a charge of giving false testimony.

Reagan, Wallace vow to stay in race as North Carolina votes

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — George C. Wallace and Ronald Reagan, once confident of victory in North Carolina's primary election, say they will continue as candidates for president no matter what happens in voting today.

Reagan, challenging President Ford for the Republican nomination, and Wallace, one of six Democrats on the ballot — their campaigns already shaken by earlier primary election setbacks — left North Carolina Monday night as underdogs.

State elections director Alex Brock predicted that 36-38 per cent of eligible voters would help decide distribution of North Carolina's 61 Democratic and 54 Republican national convention delegates.

A light frost and chilly temperatures but sunny skies greeted voters as the polls opened at 6:30 a.m. Reports from several areas during the first hour gave no clear indication of voter turnout.

The polls close at 7:30 p.m. EST. Most of the voting is on machines in heavily populated areas, but paper ballots are still used in some rural areas.

Ford, winner of the first five GOP primaries, was in Washington to await election results after spending the second of two weekends in the state. Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, expected to finish first in Democratic balloting — he won the New Hampshire, Vermont, Florida and Illinois primaries — spent more time in the state than Ford but campaigned elsewhere as election day approached.

Reagan flew to Wisconsin Monday night to prepare for the April 6 primary there, while Wallace returned to his home in Montgomery, Ala.

Other Democratic candidates, in addition to Wallace and Carter, were Washington Sen. Henry M. Jackson, Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall, former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris and Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen. Only Jackson campaigned in North Carolina; Bentsen has quit the race.

As Reagan and Wallace put the finishing touches on their North Carolina campaigns Monday, there were these other developments on the political front:

—R. Sargent Shriver, the Democratic vice presidential candidate in 1972, dropped out of the presidential race. Shriver said he would throw his support to another candidate soon and that the 11 delegates he won in early primaries were released to vote as they wish.

—The Federal Election Commission, created to administer and enforce the 1974 campaign finance law, lost most of its powers as Congress failed to meet a deadline for restructuring it in compliance with a Supreme Court order.

—Democratic leaders in Florida denounced Carter and Jackson campaign officials for trying to handpick their delegates to the national convention. Carter and Jackson forces, citing national party rules, have vetoed hundreds of names from a list of those who qualified to run as delegates for the presidential hopefuls.

—Ford won 14 more delegates to the Republican convention when the District of Columbia Board of Elections declared his delegate slate, which was not opposed, elected. The D.C. primary is May 4.

North Carolina was once considered a cornerstone state by both Wallace and Reagan strategists. It is a state with a recent record of strong support for conservative candidates and causes — President Nixon won 71 per cent of the vote here in the 1972 election and Wallace won the 1972 Democratic primary.

But Ford and Carter predicted victory in this year's voting. Reagan opened his final news conference Monday by saying he had "no prediction as to how the North Carolina primary will turn out."

"I simply will declare now that regardless of the outcome of this primary, I am in this race to stay, all the way to the convention in Kansas City," the former California governor said.

Reagan, as he has in recent weeks, criticized the Ford administration during his final day of stumping. The subject Monday was national defense.

"Mr. Ford says we're second to none militarily," Reagan declared. "I have been saying we are not where we should be as the leader of the Free World." Wallace was visibly buoyed by the crowd of 1,200 that showed up for the last rally of his campaign tour.

He drew applause as he attacked welfare "ripoffs," foreign aid "giveaways," tax loopholes and the abuse of power by "sob sister federal judges" who have ordered school busing and prison reform in Alabama.

Wallace attacked Carter throughout his North Carolina campaign, fighting the fellow Southerner who has suddenly laid claim to the constituency Wallace captured in 1968 and held in 1972.

The Carter campaign ignored Wallace's attacks and concentrated on a telephone operation to get the vote out.

And Carter appeared Monday to be winning support of the black political committees which operate in the state's major cities.

Ford urges simple extension of law and restructure of FEC

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today urged "a simple extension" of the election law with a provision restructuring the Federal Election Commission to comply with the Supreme Court's requirements, the Senate minority leader said.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., reported the President's request after he and other GOP leaders met with Ford to discuss efforts to reach a compromise with Democrats over changes in the commission, stripped by the court of its power to disburse money.

The commission, created to administer and enforce the 1974 campaign finance law that arose from the depths of the Watergate scandals, lost most of its powers at midnight Monday as Congress failed to meet the court's deadline for restructuring its membership.

Key among the powers the commission lost was authority to disburse millions of taxpayer dollars to presidential candidates and their parties.

"The President urged a simple extension of the act itself to comply with the Supreme Court and felt the sooner that could be done the better," Scott said.

If agreement can be reached to resolve "misgivings" over a provision requiring disclosure of corporate and union political funding, the measure could reach a vote in two or three days, the senator said.

Congress had been told by the court to alter the FEC so that all members were appointed by the president or the commission would forfeit its power to disburse funds to presidential candidates and to the Democratic and Republican parties for their summer conventions.

The inaction of Congress also will restrict FEC authority to carry out the law's regulations on campaign contributions and expenditures.

Still, Senate leaders said they would continue to seek a compromise in an effort to force action on a bill to restructure the FEC.

Leaders of both parties held conferences Monday in an effort to reach a compromise and agreed to meet again today to look over a simplified bill staff aides were putting together overnight.

The Senate spent three days last week debating the legislation to restructure the commission and found itself at an impasse over additional provisions that would make major changes in the 1974 law.

"If we are going to get a bill, both sides will have to make concessions," said Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., chairman of the Senate Rules Committee.

But Senate leaders appeared doubtful that any major breakthrough would be forthcoming soon. GOP Whip Robert P. Griffin said, "We are a long way from any agreement."

The House has not yet even taken up legislation to comply with the Supreme Court's Jan. 30 ruling.

The 1974 law provided for tax funds to match private contributions of $250 or less raised by candidates in their primary campaigns.

Before its power ran out, the FEC disbursed $980,266 to presidential candidates Monday, bringing the total for the year to $12.62 million. Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace got the largest share Monday, $339,603, and President Ford was second with $167,758.

The law also authorized full public financing of the general election campaigns of major party presidential candidates, up to $20 million each, and payments of $2 million for each party's convention.

A major source of controversy is a provision in the bill under which corporations would be limited to soliciting political contributions from shareholders, executives and administrative personnel. Backed by union leaders, the provision would overturn an FEC ruling allowing a company to solicit political contributions from all workers.

Unions may solicit funds from all members, and Republicans contend it is only fair to let companies seek contributions from all employees.

Cole plan draws criticism

By LENNY INGRASSIA

An administrative reorganization plan proposed by College President Dr. George E. Cole came under fire Monday night by board members and the Sauk Valley College Faculty Association.

Calling for more efficient use of administrative personnel, Cole called for eliminating 14 department head positions now held by members of the teaching staff, and replacing them with three assistant deans.

"The money is already being spent," the college president declared. He explained the present department heads work part of the time on administrative duties "but they cannot, by contract, perform any staff evaluation and are not available for scheduling." The effect of the change would result in more classroom time for the department heads along with higher instructional costs.

Cole's plan would place the three assistant deans on a full-time basis with no teaching responsibilities and relieve the department heads of their existing administrative duties, thereby creating more time for classroom teaching. The salaries of the three assistant deans are estimated to total $60,000. It is hoped the additional classroom hours taught by the department heads will offset the increased salaries paid by hiring the assistant deans. The state reimburses Sauk $18.50 for each credit hour of classroom instruction.

Monies now being paid to department heads, as an administrative cost, would be diverted to instructional costs, creating an increase there of nearly $60,000. Cole said the increase should be offset by revenues from department heads teaching an additional class.

Not only were board members reluctant to approve the measure "without more information on costs," but David Youker, Faculty Association president, questioned its "immediate adoption."

In a statement to the board, Youker called for a meeting between the faculty, board and administration to discuss the need for such a change and to further analyze Cole's plan.

Youker said the association had no prior knowledge of the proposed plan. Cole, when questioned about the apparent lack of communication by student member Ty Simmons, said the plan had been the topic at several department head meetings in the past six months.

Citing an administrative reorganization plan adopted in 1973, Youker said the actual cost of implementation exceeded projections by $51,000. "Can Sauk afford to increase its fixed costs by more than $60,000 for assistant deans as well as secretarial assistants and other costs?" he asked.

Cole projected a 10 per cent enrollment increase in the coming year. He reasoned the return of department heads to the classroom would ease the financial burden on the college.

Youker questioned the projection asking what rationale and studies support the projection, and would such an increase cover increased costs for hiring of the three assistant deans.

Cole persisted the administrative costs will not increase and higher enrollments will offset increased instructional costs. Another benefit he cited was the increase in early morning classes which could be offered with the changeover in department head duties. "We only have three 8 o'clock classes now—with the new teaching assignment more early classes can be held."

Board Chairman Ronald Coplan, Morrison, said he was reluctant to "see the payroll swell—without good reason. I see administrators as non-productive persons—income speaking—they are not producing revenues." Coplan suggested a compromise plan implementing one assistant dean and asked for further study.

William Reigle, Dixon, too, asked for more information and cost studies.

The matter was tabled until an April 8 special meeting called to discuss a recommendation by Cole to dismiss Duane Paulsen, director of the learning resource center for alleged failure to perform administrative responsibilities.

The board approved an amendment in the Educational Fund to reflect increased revenues of $89,550. The additional monies were generated from tuition and tax payments and were allocated for additional teaching staff.

The college accepted the gift of seven tons of steel from Northwestern Steel and Wire Co., for use in the welding program. Cole noted the donation offsets earlier costs for the purchase of steel at 11 cents per pound.

QUESTIONED IN SHOOTING DEATH—Claudine Longet, left, was arrested in Aspen, Colo., in connection with the shooting death of professional skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich, right. Court date for Claudine set April 8

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Singer-actress Claudine Longet faces an April 8 court appearance and a possible charge of criminally negligent homicide in the shooting death of ski star Vladimir "Spider" Sabich.

Miss Longet was released on a $5,000 personal recognizance bond on Monday after a 22-minute court hearing on the death of Sabich, 31. He was killed Sunday evening when struck in the abdomen by a bullet fired from a handgun.

Her eyes red from crying, Miss Longet, 33, was read her rights and left the courthouse in this Rocky Mountain ski resort town with singer Andy Williams, her former husband.

Dist. Atty. Frank Tucker said Miss Longet and her three children had been living with Sabich for the past two years. She first met the skier in 1972, after she was separated from Williams. The entertainers were divorced last September.

Tucker said a formal charge will be filed against Miss Longet at the April 8 court session.

MISTAKEN RAID—Miss Della Gutierrez sits on bed holding pillow in front of her as she reconstructs a situation which occurred when narcotics agents smashed their way into her apartment with a sledgehammer. The agents, searching for heroin on an informant's tip, held the apartment's three occupants at gunpoint before discovering they had the wrong address in Plainview, Tex. Miss Gutierrez said that she was taking a shower at the time, had no clothes, and could grab only a pillow for cover. (AP Wirephoto)

Rochelle overpass problem hinges on decision by ICC

ROCHELLE — Whether or not Rochelle voters will get another chance to vote on the proposed overpass hinges on a decision by the ICC, it was learned at a city council meeting Monday night.

The city council wrote a letter to the ICC asking for a six-month extension for an answer on the overpass issue, but if the ICC doesn't agree to the extension, nothing more can be done.

Mayor Bill Cipolla said, "the ball game's not over yet," and suggested considering a recount of the referendum or another election. John Beardin, a member of the Concerned Citizens Group who are in favor of an overpass, informed the council that the group would be asking for a recount. Mayor Cipolla emphasized that a recount would involve no cost to the city because the citizens requesting the recount would have to pay for it.

The council unanimously approved the official canvass of the election, which was the same as the original count: 1,325 yes, 1,320 no, and 58 spoiled ballots.

In other business, the council appointed William C. Paul as the new city attorney. Paul, now the assistant state's attorney in Oregon, will be moving to Rochelle and establishing a practice. The present attorney, Phil Nye Jr., has resigned effective May 1.

The council accepted a bid of $12,700 from Walker-Schork International for a used tractor-loader-back hoe for use by the Rochelle Street Department.

The council also accepted a bid of $14,835 from Jones & Brown, Edison, for furnishing and installing a platform and ladder on the stack of the steam plant to conform with EPA standards. The bid was the only one received and was below the engineers estimate of $15,000. The council will be advertising for bids for heating and vent systems of the police department shooting range. The bids are to be in the city Building Inspector's office by 10 a.m., April 12.

The council received a letter from the VFW asking for a parade permit for Loyalty Day, May 2. The request was granted.

A letter was also received from the Park District regarding cooperating in a tree-planting program. No action was taken.

A large number of people were at the meeting in regards to the request by the Moose Club for property annexation. The council announced that action would be taken on the proposal at a later date.

Razed cities are new frontier

By DON OAKLEY

Next to the moon landing, probably the nation's most ambitious undertaking of the past two decades was the rebuilding and revitalization of the cities.

But while it left some impressive monuments in the form of new business and commercial complexes, it has also left another legacy in dozens of cities—acres and acres of vacant and idle land not dissimilar to a moonscape.

Under the impetus of urban renewal, many cities acquired chunks of land in their downtown areas and immediately razed existing structures, and then were unable to find private investors willing to risk their capital in elaborate redevelopment plans. As a result, vast tracts of potentially valuable land lie vacant in the heart of the cities and elsewhere, yielding on tax returns, unless it is from parking lots.

In Philadelphia alone, there are 12,000 vacant lots, 2,000 vacant residential and commercial structures and 26,000 vacant and abandoned houses.

An entire city could be absorbed into older Philadelphia and disappear like ink in a blotter, says architect and urban consultant Edmund N. Bacon, writing in "Urban Land," a publication of the Urban Land Institute.

"Here, in the wastelands of our inner cities, lies the new frontier of America," he says.

In Bacon's opinion, "there must be a total national commitment to restore or rebuild every vacant, abandoned house, to put to constructive use every vacant lot in the nation."

One thing that has been proved over the past 20 years, he says, is that massive governmental programs involving direct federal action just will not work. Rather, we have to find a method of channelling federal energy and funds in such a way that they release a wide spectrum of human and entrepreneurial energy on a dispersed basis.

It is the difference between surgery, which we have tried, and therapy—"the activation of enzymes in the body politic."

The Homesteading Program, halting and feeble as it is, offers a glimmer of what could be done, Bacon believes, because it engages personal involvement, commitment and identification.

Community nonprofit corporations, whatever their record in recent years, need to be rethought and restructured, he believes, because neighborhood problems will never be solved unless neighborhood people have a real stake and a real role in solving them.

A study of how cities are spending the $2.5 billion allocated in the first year of the 1974 Housing and Community Development Act indicates that they are, indeed, no longer entranced by grandiose urban renewal schemes but instead are concentrating on housing loan programs and projects to restore inner-city neighborhoods.

Only 4 per cent of the large cities are spending any of their federal aid to revitalize their downtown business districts. This is a major departure from the urban aid spending of the 1950s and 1960s, notes Cleveland Plain Dealer writer George P. Rasanen.

Another major departure is the easing of bureaucratic red tape. Whereas it formerly took an average of nearly three years to get federal approval of renewal projects, under the new act the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has cut it to less than eight months.

Says HUD Secretary Carla A. Hills, "when we gave local communities flexibility, they changed their highest priorities to neighborhood preservation. We make no claim of perfection in the program, but the first year's record tells us we're on the right road."

Those "enzymes" Bacon refers to may be beginning to go to work.

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON (NEA)— It is difficult now to imagine Arvo Gus Hallberg as the scourge of America, a man so notorious he had to alter his name to get work. Yet Gus Hall and his American Communist party threw fear into millions in days past. Now 65 and 57 years old, respectively, he and it are only shadows of what was, and serve for most Americans as merely a reminder that there are few political monsters here who warrant the worry given to them.

Assuredly, there was something of a viable U.S. Communist menace when Hall was in the tabloids. The party in 1943 had an estimated 100,000 members, in silly cells from Bangor to Berkeley, each in a sense owning some allegiance to Soviet Union direction. Yet the American reaction failed to take into account the strength of the nation and the weakness of the enemy. Reds are not supermen, as Edwin O. Reischauer has since said, "Their feet of clay extend up to their brains." In sum, we gave Gus Hall too much credit.

A scourge? A worry? American democracy is in fact fortunate that Hall has been in charge of those who would do it in. For 40 years an influential Communist organizer, he has succeeded only in proving to the U.S. people that his ideas are unappealing. If there were opportunities for Communist advancement here, Hall has not recognized them. Almost forgotten now, except for his quadrennial and quizotic presidential campaign, he is a figure of failure.

His presidential attempts, actually, are a measure of the futility of American communism under Hall. He spent $200,000 last time around, and got 25,222 votes, some of them cast in humor or in error. This year more will be spent—God forbid he qualifies for matching funds—and in the process he will as ever claim that ballots for a Communist are nails in the coffins of the Rockefellers and monopolists. Hall talks like that a lot. It is one of his problems. The last time he gave a public speech even the Left left.

Hall's campaign is undoubtedly worker-oriented. He promises a 30-hour week for 40 hours pay, which is probably why there are always a few who'll pull his lever. Beyond this the campaign is hinged to the Bicentennial, Hall explaining that the recent revolutionary victories in Vietnam and Angola are in keeping with the breakaway from King George; otherwise, he says, a Jefferson or Adams returning to America today "would be ashamed of the nation."

One of the things Jefferson would be ashamed of, says Hall, is the continuing concern here over the Soviet Union. Hall has spent his life urging trust of Moscow. Even now, while Communist parties in Europe and elsewhere prosper from increased independence from Russia, Hall insists that the future of the American CP, thus the future of America, is as one with the resting place of Lenin. Constantly on guard against new thoughts, Hall has passed the word to his (approximately 7,500) members that anti-Sovietism is not to be.

It is ironic that Russia has seldom replied in kind to Hall's devotion. Seen in Moscow years ago as a lightweight, the Soviet world treats him merely with tolerance. Candid Communists say Hall is humored by Russians, his staying power is appreciated, but that the only reason he is not shuffled aside is that his heirs are even less swift than he.

To his credit, Hall has hung on. Other leftists come and go—what ever became of SDS?—but Hall's CP remains the most active and obstinate organization of this kind of U.S. extremism.

The party newspaper, The Daily World, continues to have a 40,000 press run. The grimy party headquarters on New York's 26th Street continues to receive some small contributions. The old bomb throwers continue to get together with the new radicals in quiet local sessions, dreaming of the day when private property is abolished.

And of course the quest for the White House goes on never ending. The party hopes to be on ballots in 25-30 states this year, a group of workers has been gathered, a publicist has even been employed. Gus Hall for President. Is anybody anywhere really worried anymore?

Rhodesia's fortress mentality holds fast

SALISBURY (LENS)— White Rhodesians are taking a relatively calm view of events in southern Africa. Listening to the BBC press review each morning, or reading some of the South African dailies, one might think that Russian tanks were already somewhere between Umtali and Salisbury and that the collapse of white government was imminent.

It is not like that at all, and the world's press has read more into Ian Smith's recent reference to "a change of tactics" than was intended by the prime minister.

It is clear that he did not mean that he was on the verge of being obliged to accept immediate majority rule. His current talks with Joshua Nkomo have reached deadlock: Nkomo, a black moderate leader, seeks black rule after a transition period of not longer than two or three years; the government offers a plan providing for eventual black-white parity probably some time early in the next century. Smith may be about to offer a bit more, but it will not be anything that Nkomo can accept.

If Smith were even to contemplate going along with the kind of deal suggested by Nkomo's African National Council, his party would quickly depose him. The chairman of the ruling Rhodesian Front, Des Frost, has made this very clear:

"I don't believe in majority rule or in the inevitability of it. Therefore the concept of a transitional government never enters my mind. I am satisfied it will be totally unacceptable to the party."

Frost has always been an accurate barometer of feeling in the constituencies, and there is no reason to believe that he is out of touch this time.

Against this background, it is hard to see what Lord Greenhill, dispatched to Salisbury by British foreign secretary James Callaghan, can achieve. The anti-Smith whites, who in truth do not count for very much, have welcomed British participation. The Center party's leader, Pat Bashford, has been riding his hobby-horse about compensation for displaced whites; the Rhodesia party, which is slightly stronger, has suggested that Smith may at last be facing up to the facts of life.

But Frost and a clear majority of the country's 280,000 whites see those facts from a perspective unlike that of the rest of the world. Indeed, Smith has already, in comments this week, backpedaled a little from his statement about the "change of tactics," and this may reflect the hostile reaction from his party to Britain's reappearance on the scene.

Nkomo is claiming that Lord Greenhill's journey is the direct result of his visit to Callaghan earlier this month; he sees it as further pressure on the whites to do the best deal they can with the nationalist group he commands. The rival, and stronger, nationalist group, led by Bishop Muzorewa, which calls the Smith-Nkomo talks irrelevant, has said that no good at all can come from British participation.

Despite the agitation abroad, and despite the widening of the guerrilla war with incidents in the southeast from Mozambique-based guerrillas, there is no public evidence to suggest a change of Smith's heart.

White Rhodesians believe that they can cope with the guerrillas and claim that they see no reason for any outside intervention, though if South Africa were again to offer help it would be gratefully accepted. British troops may yet come to Rhodesia to fight for "Kith and kin."

Neither blacks nor whites believe that Britain will intervene militarily to impose a change. Nearly all believe the British have only a minor role to play.

Ain't and grammatical double 'no'

English teachers worry too much about grammar—about "how" a student says something rather than "what" he says—delegates to the recent annual convention of the National Council of Teachers of English in San Diego were told.

For instance, when a boy says, "I don't have no pencil," should an English teacher give him a lecture on double negatives? No, said council executive director Robert Hogan. The teacher should give him a pencil.

Then later, when he tells the local unemployment office, "I don't have no job," they will also hand him a pencil to list his qualifications.

"I don't have no pencil (or job)" is incorrect, of course. Many of the products of our high schools would say, "I ain't got no pencil (or job)."

Using nitrogen properly produces high yields

Proper application of nitrogen fertilizer to corn can produce a high return per dollar invested, says R. G. Hoeft, University of Illinois Extension agronomist. However, nitrogen is also one of the largest expense items.

Farmers should consider various factors associated with the optimum economic nitrogen rate, advises Hoeft. These include yield goal, economics, and past cropping history. The optimum nitrogen rate is influenced by yield potential and by the corn-nitrogen price ratio (corn price per bushel to nitrogen price per pound), says Hoeft.

To determine the corn to nitrogen price ratio, divide the expected corn price by the nitrogen cost. For example, if corn is worth three dollars per bushel and nitrogen costs 15 cents per pound, the ratio is 20 to 1. However, the price ratio is 10 to 1. When N is spring applied, U. of I. experiments indicate that the economic optimum nitrogen rate varies from 1.22 to 1.32 pounds of N per bushel of corn produced. The lower rate (1.22 pounds) is recommended at a corn-to-nitrogen price ratio of 10:1. The higher rate (1.32 pounds) is recommended at a price ratio of 20:1.

Adjustments in nitrogen rate should be considered if corn follows a legume or if manure is applied, says Hoeft. Based on research, nitrogen rates can be reduced 40 pounds per acre on corn following soybeans as compared to the rate for continuous corn.

The nitrogen contribution from alfalfa or clover depends on the legume stand that has been plowed under, observes Hoeft. A maximum reduction of 100 pounds per acre can be made when a stand containing 50 per cent of more legume has been plowed under. If the legume is between 25 and 50 per cent, a reduction of 50 pounds per acre is suggested.

The nitrogen contribution from alfalfa or clover depends on the legume stand that has been plowed under, observes Hoeft. A maximum reduction of 100 pounds per acre can be made when a stand containing 50 per cent or more legume has been plowed under. If the legume is between 25 and 50 per cent, a reduction of 50 pounds per acre is suggested.

Manure is generally considered to contain 10 pounds of nitrogen per ton. However, there is some variation in actual content depending on the source and method of handling. Regardless of source, only 50 per cent of the total nitrogen will be available to the crop during the first year after application.

The bulk of the nitrogen fertilizers available for use in Illinois provide N in the combined form of ammonia, ammonium, nitrate, and/or urea, says Hoeft. When properly applied, all forms are likely to produce the same yield increase.

Nitrogen materials containing free ammonia such as anhydrous and low-pressure solutions must be injected into the soil to avoid gaseous loss of ammonia. On light-textured (sandy) soils, anhydrous ammonia should be placed eight to ten inches deep. Application should be six to eight inches deep on silt loam soils. Ammonia should not be applied when wet soil prevents closure of the knife tracks.

Surface applications of urea or solutions containing urea may result in nitrogen loss, says Hoeft. Losses are more likely on high pH soils with low cation-exchange capacity than on low pH soils with high exchange capacity.

The presence of a plant residue also increased the likelihood of loss. And most research indicates that losses will be more severe if urea is applied to the surface of dry or drying soils. Volatilization losses will be negligible if urea is incorporated.

However, all recommended trees will be considered. They do not necessarily have to fit into these categories. The 17 national Big Tree Champions which grow in Illinois will be suggested to the Association for inclusion in the publication.

Nominations should be in writing and contain the location of the tree plus the story connected with it or why it is of special interest. Nomination forms and additional information are available from T. W. Curtin, 211 Mumford Hall, Urbana, Ill. 61801; or from: H. F. Siemert, Department of Conservation, Division of Forestry, 605 State Office Building, Springfield, Ill. 62706.

Illinois leads in grain crops

For the first time in several years, Illinois led the nation in production of both the most important grain crops, corn and soybeans. Not only did the Prairie State top any other in total bushels produced, for the first time in recent memory Illinois led in average bushel yield, for both crops!

For corn, Illinois out-produced Iowa, by almost 150 million bushels, with 1,242,000,000 bushels (1.2 billion); and out-produced Iowa's 12 million acres in production of corn averaging 90 bushel per acre. With only 10 million acres producing corn, Illinois' cornfields performed better and averaged 116 bushels per acre.

Wireworms a corn menace too

By M. T. BARLASS
Lee Co. Extension Adviser
Rootworms aren't the only insect that corn producers have to look out for. Wireworms are occasionally a problem in some of our cornfields, but we don't really notice them until after the damage is done.

Corn following a grass sod is most likely to have a wireworm problem, and the problem can exist for two to three years after the sod is plowed under. Wireworms develop slowly and take four to six years to complete their life cycle.

You can check for wireworms before planting to determine if treatment is necessary. Here's how to do it yourself by placing bait in the soil at six locations in a field: Use a mixture of one cup of wheat and one cup of shelled corn at each bait station. After April 1 place the bait in a hole about three to six inches deep.

Place two bait stations at the highest field elevation — two on the slope and two at the lowest area. Cover the bait with soil and mark the locations. In 10 to 14 days, dig up the areas and examine for wireworm larvae.

Overwintering wireworms will be attracted to the bait stations and you'll see some action. If there is an average of one wireworm per station, treatment with an insecticide is recommended.

Apply Furadan or Counter in the furrow, or Thimet, Dasanit, Dyfonate or Mocap in a seven-inch band ahead of the press wheel, but read and follow the directions on the label.

Most fields will not have any worms, or at most one or two worms at six bait traps. No treatment is recommended for these fields, unless you have had a history of wireworm in heavy concentration.

Narrow rows give more yield

There's been a more than usual interest in narrow row beans this year. If weeds are controlled, soybeans will yield more in narrow rows than in the traditional 38- and 40-inch row. Since late-planted soybeans are not as tall as early-planted beans, the advantage for using narrow rows increases as planting is delayed past early June. The greatest increase in yield comes from narrowing the row width from 40 to 30 inches. Herbicides should be carefully selected to be sure of weed control if beans are in rows of less than 30 inches. It appears that the greatest success with drilled beans may come when planting is completed near June 1. The 1976 Agronomy Handbook will contain some excellent information on this subject. Copies are available at your County Extension office.

Camp to offer riding program

Shaw-waw-nas-see 4-H Camp will have an educational and recreational program in horsemanship this summer, announced Wayne Wubbena, Lee County Extension adviser.

This is a rare opportunity for the beginner to learn how to ride properly. For the more experienced rider the course offers a great way to improve horsemanship while having fun.

The riding program is designed to provide safe, sound, and correct riding instruction in the balanced seat at a reasonable price. Twelve hours of instruction will be provided for each rider. There will be 10 riders in each class and each rider will be assigned to his/her own horse for the entire week. The fee for this program is $40 in addition to the basic camp fee.

Youngsters will have plenty of time to be with their special horse, go on trail rides, play games on horseback, and learn a few show techniques. Campers will learn about horse-care and now to have fun with horses safely. At all times the riders will be under the guidance of their professional teacher, Mrs. Roberta Markiewicz and the 4-H camp staff.

For more information contact the Lee County Extension Office.

Newborn pigs

Dr. Al Leman, Extension veterinarian, talked at a recent swine seminar and suggested that shortly after pigs are born, disinfect the navel using tincture of iodine. Clip needle teeth, being careful not to crush the teeth or cut the gums. Tails can be docked at the same time. If your pigs do not come in contact with fresh soil or soil, inject iron into the neck or forearm or add iron to the feed or drinking water to prevent anemia. You can castrate boar pigs any time before they are four weeks old.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN O. ATWELL

Hyland-Atwell recite vows

Judith Kay Hyland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald O. Beane, Dixon, and John O. Atwell, Kansas City, Mo., exchanged nuptial vows Feb. 28 at the Church By the Side of the Road, Rockton.

Dr. Joseph Cleveland, pastor at the church, officiated.

Attending as her sister's maid of honor was Miss Terri Lynn Beane. The bride's father served as best man. The couple was later honored at a reception at the Nachusa House Trail Room.

Since their honeymoon to Jumer's Castle Lodge, Bettendorf, Iowa, the newlyweds have been making their first home at 906 Chestnut in Dixon.

The new Mrs. Atwell is a bookkeeper at People's Market in Sterling. Mr. Atwell is terminal manager of Kissick Truck Lines in Rock Falls.

A questionnaire for men over 50 on the loose

Dear Ann Landers: Here are some questions all married men over 50 should ask themselves while slapping a little extra after-shave on their faces in preparation for a clandestine date with a cute young thing:

(1) When was the last time you heard of a young woman sneaking around with a married man twice her age who was poor?

(2) Have you ever noticed that the "Glamor Puss" invariably has bills that must be paid, or she is always in desperate need of something she can't afford? Who was the last solvent chick you ran around with?

(3) What would you think if your daughter or your son's wife was involved in the type of relationship this woman is carrying on with you?

(4) Have you ever considered the possibility that your affair is not as private as you think?

Wake up, idiot! Nobody is envying you. Your friends think you've lost your marbles. — A Sex Clown's Wife

Dear Wife: Here's your letter. And now a word to the Clowns: Please don't write and ask me where that letter came from. I'm not talkin'.

Dear Ann Landers: My parents named me Anita. The person who wrote out my birth certificate misspelled my name and it came out "Anutta." When I started school I had to bring my birth certificate. Since it read "Anutta" my mother felt certain I was stuck with it, so that's what everyone called me. Naturally, I was "Nut" for short.

I hated the name but neither my parents nor anyone else believed anything could be done about it, so I remained "Anutta."

I'm 20 now and just learned something that might help others, although it's too late for me.

Anyone who wants his or her first name corrected (or changed) on a birth certificate can do so for a nominal fee. Here's how: Write to the Vital Records Section of the Department of Public Health in the city of your birth. Proper forms will be sent to be filled out. The notarized signature of a parent, older relative or friend is all that is needed. — Enjoy Your New Name

Dear Joy: I'm sure many readers will profit from the information. (P.S. If your birth certificate reads "Itchick" and you'd rather be "Pierpont" you can fix that, too).

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from a man in St. Louis who was heart sick because he ran over a dog. It started me crying all over again.

Three days ago our dog was killed and it was all my fault. It was up my brother and me to make sure she was locked up before we left for school. That morning it was my turn and I forgot.

I am so full of shame and guilt I can barely do my school work. All I can think of is the terrible thing I did. I feel like a criminal.

If this letter gets in the paper it will help me feel better. I will know something to do with reminding millions of dog owners to keep their pets I had locked up. Thank you, Ann. — Tears In Texas

Dear Texas: Here's your letter — now dry your tears and do something constructive. Like get another dog and vow to take better care of it.

Calling all poppyseed fanciers

POPPYSEED HONEY CAKE

2-3rds cup poppyseed
1-3rd cup honey
1/4 cup water
2 1/2 cups flour, stir to aerate before measuring
1 teaspoon baking soda

1 teaspoon salt
1 cup butter
1 1/2 cups sugar
4 large eggs, separated
1 cup commercial sour cream
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Grease and flour a 10-inch angelcake pan.

In a small saucepan simmer together for 5 minutes, stirring often, the poppyseed, honey and water; cool.

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking soda and salt.

In the large bowl of an electric mixer cream butter and sugar; beat in poppyseed mixture. At moderate speed, thoroughly beat in the egg yolks, one at a time; add sour cream and vanilla and beat until blended. At lowest speed, gradually beat in the flour mixture.

With a clean beater, in a small mixing bowl, beat egg whites until they form stiff straight peaks when the beater is slowly withdrawn; fold into batter. Turn into prepared pan.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — about 55 minutes. Let stand on a wire rack for 5 minutes. With a small metal spatula, loosen edges and around tube and turn out on rack; cool completely. Serve as is or spread top with vanilla-flavor confectioners' sugar frosting, letting some of it drip down sides; sprinkle top with extra poppyseed.

Spade knave saves the day

By Oswald & James Jacoby

When your left-hand opponent opens the bidding with one of a suit and his partner passes it is up to you to reopen on the theory that your partner will hold the balance of power. In the situation you don't need 16 points to bid one notrump and South's 14-point notrump was fully justified.

So was North's raise to three and it was up to South to bring the contract home.

He wouldn't have been able to do this if West had decided to play singles (he might well do since his partner had shown a very bad hand) and played out ace-king and 10 of spades, but West made the standard fourth-best lead and South brought home the contract by means of a second-hand-high play. He went up with dummy's jack of spades. It held and now South was able to finesse in clubs with safety since his queen of spades was a second stopper in the suit.

Let's Talk About Decorating

By GLADYS WOLBER

Let There Be Light In Your Home

Lamps and other lighting fixtures serve two vital functions in your home. First, they're important to the decor of any room. Floor lamps, pole lamps, decorative lamps on chains, ceiling fixtures and table lamps—each can contribute to the over-all look of a well-decorated room. The other vital function, of course, is to bring lighting to your home.

When selecting lighting fixtures for your home, be guided by common sense. A good, strong reading lamp should be placed beside a chair where father reads the evening paper. Decorative chain lamps are perfect for setting a certain mood or illuminating a dark corner but usually don't produce enough light to be used as reading or study lamps.

If you're decorating a small room and don't have room for several end tables, consider a pole lamp. These provide floor to ceiling illumination, while taking up little space. If your room has extremely high ceilings, use wall lighting to create a more intimate atmosphere. When using table lamps, be sure their size is in proportion with the tables on which they're sitting.

We have a marvelous selection of quality lighting fixtures. Our home decorating consultants will be happy to assist you in selecting just the right ones for your home.

(We suggest you save these columns of ideas for future planning if you have no immediate need.)

The Doctor Says: Initial weight loss is easiest

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — Three months ago as an investment in maintaining good health and wanting to get back in good shape, I began a very ambitious exercise and dieting program to lose weight. I am 5-foot-6 and 39 years old. At the time my weight was 215, my objective is 150. During the first two months I lost 35 pounds but in the past month I have not lost more than a pound or two. I can't believe it.

I ride a bicycle 20 miles a day and consume no more than 1,000 calories a day with supplemental vitamins and minerals.

I am frustrated and demoralized. How is it possible to expend this amount of energy and not see reduction in weight? Most of the weight I wish to lose is in the waist and hips. Am I expecting too much too soon? Can you project when I will reach my goal at the present rate of exercising and dieting?

DEAR READER — The initial loss of excess weight is usually the easiest. Every time you moved 215 pounds it required a lot more energy than moving 180 pounds. When people begin a dieting program they empty out the digestive system and they lose fluid. You have stabilized those problems at this point and your present weight loss represents true loss of pounds of fat.

I am suspicious that your diet isn't very good. For a physically active man the diet should be at least 1,500 calories a day. That provides for a slow gradual weight loss. You may have miscalculated your calories. Perhaps your servings are larger than you think. Your daily basal metabolism without doing any exercise at all should result in your using close to 1,500 calories. At that rate on a 1,000 calories a day diet you would lose the calories equivalent to one pound of body fat a week, sitting still.

There are several reasons why a person may appear not to lose very much weight while on a diet. One of these is the water retention phenomenon. As the fat is broken down it results in the formation of water. The water may be retained by the body over a period of several weeks, then suddenly there will be a marked flushing out of the excess water and a marked drop in weight. Then there may not be any weight loss again for several weeks. This plateau type of weight loss is characteristic of some people.

Another factor which makes it difficult to judge in a person who is exercising is muscle growth. The exercise may stimulate you to develop muscles which is healthy and good for your body. The amount of calories in one pound of fat is equivalent to the calories in five pounds of lean muscle tissue. So you can start enlarging your muscles while you are losing fat and not see any appreciable change on the scales, what you see is in the body configuration.

I would suggest you use a diet which is well-balanced and provides you enough calories not to limit your energy level. Learn to eat the kind of diet that you should eat to maintain your weight at 150 pounds with your level of physical activity. That way it will be a lifetime affair for you.

If you lose one pound a week you will be doing great. Excessively rapid weight loss can lead to other medical problems which you would do well to avoid.

FOR THE BIRDS is obviously the best description of this Turkish businessman's location. He sells corn to pigeon-feeding tourists near Istanbul's Galata Bridge.

Plush McDonald's in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Who would have thought it? A McDonald's on Chicago's Magnificent Mile—Michigan Avenue.

The wealthy patrons who shop there may not need "a break today," but now there's one available for them if they want it.

Not that McDonald's on Michigan, with its oak furnishings, maitre d' and unique fifth-floor location in Chicago's plush Water Tower Place, is typical of the chain's other 3,700 drive-ins.

Nevertheless, owner-operator Ernie Cochonis claims, "We're getting 30 to 40 brand new McDonald's customers in here every day who've never been in a McDonald's in their lives." This new link in the giant hamburger chain opened for business on March 2.

But Michigan McDonald's did make one concession in exchange for its location—next to the Ritz-Carlton Hotel and across the street from the John Hancock Building—it dropped the familiar golden arches at the request of the building's management.

"I wanted to put the Big M on top of the tower, but they wouldn't let me," Cochonis joked.

In anticipation of a different class of customer, Cochonis hired 100 young workers from more than 2,000 applicants to "do it all" for those unaccustomed to the intricacies of fast food.

For the extra help, Michigan McDonald's patrons pay an extra nickel per selection.

I wish to thank the people of the 9th Precinct for their vote in the primary election.

Thanks Again

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, March 23, the 83rd day of 1976. There are 283 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1775, Patrick Henry made a plea for American freedom in a speech before the Virginia Provincial Convention in Richmond. He declared: "Give me liberty or give me death."

On this date, Pope Clement VII declared valid the marriage of Henry VIII of England to Catherine of Aragon.

In 1868, the impeachment trial of President Andrew Johnson began in Washington. He was acquitted.

In 1919, Benito Mussolini founded a new political movement in Italy.

In 1942, the wartime program of moving Japanese-Americans from their homes on the West Coast to inland camps was begun.

In 1956, Pakistan became a republic but retained membership in the British Commonwealth.

In 1965, the first two-man American space team was shot into orbit from Cape Kennedy, Fla. It was the first of the Gemini series, with astronauts Virgil Grissom and John Young making the pioneer flight.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson stated that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization would push ahead without France, if that became necessary.

Five years ago: Eighty thousand farmers from six European countries marched in Brussels, Belgium, to demand higher prices.

Thought for today: Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning — the Psalms.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the Continental Congress ended a long debate by resolving that armed American ships could act as privateers to seize British vessels on the high seas.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE G-638: Rodney G. aged 46, is a business executive. "Dr. Crane," his wife began, "Rodney had a heart attack and was taken to the hospital last month."

"His blood pressure was then 215-110 when he was admitted. He lost about 20 pounds while in the hospital and is now back home, though rather weak."

"He still smokes like a fiend, however, and he told me he had really expected the doctors to veto his cigarettes, but they never said a word against his continuing with his heavy smoking."

"Actually, I think he was hoping the doctors would lay down the law to him so he'd have more incentive to try to break the tobacco habit."

"Now he is doubly worried lest they think he is going to die soon, anyway, so they figure why disturb his smoking habit during his final few months on this earth."

"Dr. Crane, will you please talk to Rodney and also see if you can persuade him to give up his tobacco?"

With patients who are past the average age of men (namely 67), physicians often think, "What's the use of disturbing the tobacco addict?"

But with younger men like Rodney, every doctor should firmly veto tobacco, for it is a major cause of heart attacks and high blood pressure. Besides, the patients often have the same secret hope that Rodney shows, and thus wish the physician would forbid their tobacco habit so they could generate more fervor in trying to break it."

So I had dinner with Rodney and his wife.

During our table conversation, I reminded them that the Bible definitely says God allotted a lifespan of 120 years to us human beings.

But that 120 years demands that we treat our anatomical machine with respect and don't figuratively pour sand in the crankcase oil or sugar in the gasoline!

Which means, that we definitely avoid harmful items that medical research, as well as practical experience, have shown to shorten man's lifespan.

Smoking definitely zooms the incidence of lung cancer. And produces thousands of emphysema deaths annually!

It is also the major cause of heart and vascular deaths, which total 1,000,000 per year in contrast to but 350,000 cancer deaths of all types!

So tobacco is the greatest killer of human beings, lopping off from five to seven years of the present lifespan of men.

Obesity and the liquor habits likewise knock off years from that 67-year present lifespan of men, as per British, German and American insurance statistics!

If, however, the lungs of smokers show precancerous cells, if the smoker then quits tobacco, those cells fortunately go back to normal instead of progressing into cancer!

So STOP now, for you tobacco addicts can add many more years to your lifespan!

So send for my booklet "How To Break The Tobacco Habit," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Mellott, Indiana, 47958, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets).

Reminder on boat registration

SPRINGFIELD — As the ice dissipates, many Illinoisans' thoughts turn to boating. More than 100,000 boaters' registrations expire June 30, and Department of Conservation officials are urging owners to renew now.

"Approximately 50,000 boaters did not respond to the 'notice of renewal' issued several months ago," said Tony Dean, director of the Department.

"As the deadline draws closer, we will begin receiving phone calls and letters from some of these persons, urging us to send their registration decal so they may use their boats in July. However, processing the forms takes several weeks, and the registrant runs the risk of delay past the expiration date."

A second advantage of registering now is the decal can be applied while the boat is out of the water.

Those applying for boat registration after the June 30 deadline also must remove their numbers, as new numbers are assigned after this date.

Cost of boat registration is $4 for two years.

Judge accused of midnight sentence

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — An Illinois Circuit Court judge has been accused of arresting a man at an apartment in which the judge had an interest and sentencing him to jail without benefit of a trial.

The Illinois Judicial Inquiry Board charged Monday that Associate Judge William D. Vandewater arrested Flor C. Lopez last October at an apartment building in Aurora, got his signature on a guilty plea and sentenced him to eight months in prison on a theft charge.

The board asked the Illinois Courts Commission to discipline Vandewater who reportedly sentenced Lopez to prison during midnight proceedings at the Aurora jail.

"There was in fact no trial and no appearance by Lopez in a courtroom," the board said in a complaint, adding that the state's attorney was not consulted as required by law.

The board's report said the incident stemmed from Lopez allegedly causing a disturbance in an Aurora apartment building where he lived previously and in which Vandewater had an interest.

Lopez was held in jail from Oct. 17 until Oct. 23, when Vandewater suspended his sentence. The guilty plea later was overturned and the charge dropped at the request of the Kane County state's attorney.

New morality in TV shows rapped

CHICAGO (AP) — Television programs that feature the New Morality have "taken the stag party...and put it in our living rooms," charges a broadcast executive.

Mike Shapiro, former chairman of the National Association of Broadcasters' television board, told industry representatives Monday that television is forcing the New Morality on its viewers.

But Ed Weinburger, executive producer of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," defended such programs, saying they reflect the real world and help viewers form their own opinions.

Debate the subject at the NBA's annual convention, Shapiro said the television script writer "who gets his ideas in the bathrooms of Hollywood...is contributing to the unrest we're experiencing today."

Television is a family medium, he added, and the broadcasting industry itself must draw the line at taste and decency.

Weinburger, who also produces "Phyllis" and "Rhoda," countered that television has not created the New Morality but "is in fact about 15 years behind the new morals."

The larger issue, he said, is freedom of speech. The idea that television programming should "follow a particular party line, whether it is the family or the public interest line, is wrong....I'm not just talking about sex on television. I'm talking about ideas and the control of ideas."

The public, he said, "should have the right to decide (what they view on television), not a few censors in the name of decency or public morality."

Polo youth is accused

OREGON — Ogle County Sheriff's Deputies arrested Eddie J. Huseman, 19, Polo, Monday night on a charge of illegal transportation of liquor with a broken seal.

Deputies were on routine patrol when they stopped Huseman's vehicle one mile north of Polo.

Earlier Monday deputies arrested George R. Salter, 54, Leaf River. A warrant had previously been issued charging Salter with criminal trespassing to a vehicle.

Both men were released on bond to appear in Ogle County Circuit Court April 9.

Correction

In analyzing the nominating write-in votes for candidates for the Lee County Board, The Telegraph reported Jim Ketchum, District 2, with 54 votes got the second largest number of write-in tallies.

This was incorrect. Donald Burke received 57 write-in votes and was the second highest candidate getting write-in tallies.

The Telegraph regrets the error.

Psychiatrist who labeled Patty 'queen of SLA' urges probation

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The psychiatric expert who labeled Patricia Hearst "a queen of the Symbionese Liberation Army" says the young heiress should be granted probation after her bank robbery conviction.

"I think she should get probation with time served, which should be about six months now," Dr. Joel Fort told The Associated Press.

"I hope society would not be vindictive toward her.... She should be seen as a convicted bank robber who has no previous criminal record and is in her early 20s. Society should not practice overkill."

"The maximum reasonable sentence should be five years, which probably is less than two years actual time," he said in an interview Monday.

Fort said he was addressing himself only to Miss Hearst's federal bank robbery conviction Saturday and not to the 11 state charges she still faces in Los Angeles. Those charges, which include assault and kidnapping, carry a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

Fort, a physician with psychiatric training, testified for the prosecution for five days during the 39-day trial. He said he believed Miss Hearst became "royalty" among her publicity-conscious terrorist companions and willingly joined them in the April 15, 1974, bank robbery.

His testimony was attacked by chief defense attorney F. Lee Bailey, who later referred to the doctor as "a psychopath and a habitual liar."

Fort — who says he strives to "love deeply and hate selectively" — would not criticize Bailey by name but said the guilty verdict supported his analysis of the defendant — and his integrity.

Fort — a shaven-headed man with a mustache — said he did exhaustive research and interviewed Miss Hearst four times before reaching the conclusion that she converted to the cause of her captors within a month of her Feb. 4, 1974, kidnapping.

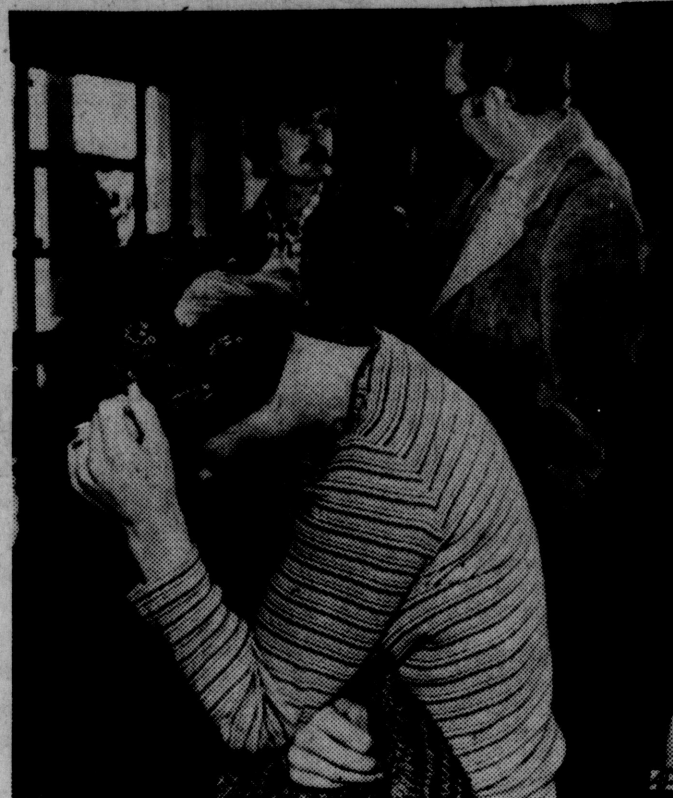

He said he doubted she would have been a violent revolutionary forever but probably would instead have acquired a nonviolent, feminist perspective.

In the last days of her 19 months underground, Fort said, "I think she was evolving more and more away from violence toward radical nonviolent feminism."

Fort said he is sorry about the treatment Miss Hearst received after her arrest, especially the way her attorneys and the news media portrayed her as the childlike "Patty."

"She (now) has some uncertainty about who she is and what she believes... a certain guilt in renouncing the people she had deep feelings for in the SLA," he said. "It was clear she decided to do what her attorneys told her to do."

The doctor said the trial outcome has likely left Miss Hearst confused and discouraged, but he said the verdict probably has removed most of the threat from underground terrorists who branded her a turncoat and bombed Hearst-associated properties during the trial.

Constitutionality of Illinois law tested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The constitutionality of an Illinois law that bars illegitimate children from inheriting their dead fathers' estates will be decided by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The court agreed Monday to review the law, which provides that illegitimate children may inherit from their mothers but not from their fathers. The law applies when the parent dies without leaving a will.

Attorneys challenging the Illinois law on behalf of a 5-year-old girl said 21 other states have similar statutes.

Jessie Trimble of Chicago brought suit for her daughter, Deta Mona. The child's father, Sherman Gordon, was killed in May 1974. Her parents were living together at the time of his death but were not married.

Gordon left no will and the lower courts ruled that his estate, a car valued at $2,500, must go to his parents, two sisters, a brother and a half-brother.

Legal Aid attorneys representing the child argued that the statute denies illegitimate children their constitutional right to due process of law and is discriminatory because legitimate children would inherit their fathers' estates.

The law further discriminates against illegitimate children whose fathers die because it allows other illegitimate children to inherit their mothers' estates, they contended.

Attorneys for Gordon's mother, Ethel King, argued that illegitimate children have no fundamental right to inherit the estates of fathers who die intestate.

"They said state legislatures 'should be able to establish such a classification provided that it is related to a valid estate purpose.'"

Lethal Greenery

Do you carefully lock away poisonous cleaning solutions and keep medicines in child-proof containers? Even so, you may have equally lethal items sitting out in the open in your home or yard. Many common household and garden plants contain poisonous substances. Because children may put leaves or flowers in their mouths, some experts have urged parents to take inventories of the plants around their homes during Poison Prevention Week this week. More than 700 varieties of poisonous plants may be found growing in North America. The entire rhododendron plant, shown in this picture, is poisonous, from its flowers and leaves to its roots.

DO YOU KNOW — Which parts of the hyacinth, narcissus, and daffodil are poisonous?

Senior Party Line

What kinds of legislation affecting senior citizens might be passed by the state legislature this year?—L.O. Dear Mrs. O:

It's impossible to predict what might come out of the Illinois General Assembly this year. In even-numbered years, the legislature tries to restrict itself primarily to budgetary matters and emergency concerns. However, a number of bills directly or indirectly affecting Illinois seniors are still "alive" in committee. It is conceivable that some of them will be sent from committee to the floor of the House of Representatives or State Senate for full debate and action.

Among the bills carried over from the 1975 session are HB 2246, which would allow the sale of prescription drugs under their generic names; SB 452, increasing the Homestead Exemption property tax break from $1,500 to $2,000; HB 2117, enabling seniors to enroll at public colleges and universities without having to pay tuition; HB 2585, making thefts from persons 65 and older a Class 3 felony; and HB 2277, regulation of hearing aid dealers.

Several new bills have been introduced in 1976, and more are sure to come later in the Spring. One bill, HB 3217, would increase the exemptions for surviving spouses under state inheritance tax laws. Two others, HB 3140 and 3233, would enable counties to spend more funds on senior programs and activities. Again, it's very difficult to say what if anything will happen to these bills. Much will depend on the amount of support mustered for them.

Can you tell what the requirements are for receiving General Assistance?—P.N. Dear Mr. N:

In order to receive General Assistance support, you must not be eligible for other forms of public assistance—Aid to the Aged, Blind and Disabled, Aid to Families with Dependent Children, and Medical Assistance. Basically, the program is designed to help families not eligible for public aid but who lack the resources to meet their needs.

Local government units are responsible for administering the General Assistance program. Illinois residents must live within a particular area for six months in order to qualify for General Assistance from that local government. Those unemployed persons who are able to work must register for employment and accept bona fide job offers if they are made. Educational and vocational training programs, as well as service and training projects, must be entered if these are considered suitable for the recipient.

General Assistance funds may be used to help pay for care and maintenance in a county nursing home, a private nursing home, retirement home or other facility for the aged. Also, General Assistance may be used to help families facing financial crises under emergency circumstances.

Do disabled persons receive any reductions in property taxes?—R.E. Dear Mr. E:

Property owned and used exclusively by certain disabled veterans, their wives and unremarried widows as a home can qualify for a tax exemption of up to $15,000 in assessed value. Veterans must have service-connected disabilities and must have received federal funds for the purchase or construction of housing specially adapted to the disability. The exemption must be re-established on a year to year basis by the Illinois Department of Veterans' Affairs, formerly the Illinois Veterans' Commission.

Of course, disabled persons 65 and older may apply for the Homestead Exemption, which is available to property owners aged 65 and older throughout the state. The exemption allows up to a $1,500 reduction in equalized assessed valuation of a senior citizen's residence. Disabled persons under 65 do not at present qualify for this benefit.

Persons may call the toll-free Senior Action Hotline 800-252-6565 with questions or complaints about government agencies or programs or for information about tax relief, health care, food stamps, Social Security, employment, housing or legal aid.

In Dixon persons may call the Lee County Council for Aging 288-2117.

State record

SPRINGFIELD — Ed Waibel had the right combination — a February warm spell, some open water, the itch to fish and a Mister Twister lure. As a result, Waibel, of 2036 North Harlem Avenue, Elmwood Park, now owns the Illinois largemouth bass record.

Casting a stone quarry pond in Lake County on Feb. 15, Waibel tied into a 13 pound, one ounce largemouth lunker. The bass was 28 inches long and had a girth of 23 inches.

Waibel's fish topped the old record of 12 pounds, eight ounces, caught by James Crandall of Gillespie from Carlinville Lake in 1969.

CHRIS SHAW

Shaw is second in state meet

SPRINGFIELD — Chris Shaw grabbed a second place in the 50-yard butterfly event, here, over the weekend to highlight the showing of the Dixon YMCA Dolphins swim team in the Illinois YMCA swimming meet.

Shaw, who placed second in the 50-yard backstroke in the state meet two years ago at Peoria, missed first in the butterfly by .09 to bring home a silver medal. Dayle Bridgeman was 26th in the 25-yard backstroke for eight-and-under girls for the Dolphins.

Karen Jensen took a 21st in the 25-yard freestyle while Elizabeth Nehls was 27th in the 50-yard freestyle for 11-and-12 girls. Bridgeman, Jensen, Marcy Kiefer and Elizabeth Johnson teamed up for a 17th in the Cadet Medley Relay.

Jim Boyer grabbed a 17th in the 50-yard freestyle for 11-and-12 boys. The competition was held at the Eisenhower Pool.

No luck for Royals

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — After finishing second to Oakland last year in the American League West, the Kansas City Royals went shopping for some right-handed batting muscle.

They had no luck. But that could be their only weak spot. There are compelling indications that this could be the Royals' year.

Last year's club won 91 games, a total exceeded only by the four division winners.

The infield is stocked with potential superstars at first and third. Overall, there is more depth. The pitching corps, while not without question marks, appears more promising than ever.

Manager Whitey Herzog feels the Royals should open the 1976 season stronger than in 1975 for two reasons.

"First of all, we will open the season with a stronger pitching staff," he says. "Secondly, I know a lot more about my players, and they know what I expect."

Herzog was hired July 24 from the staff of the California Angels to replace the fired Jack McKeon, and the team immediately perked up.

During his 76-game tenure the Royals went 41-25, fattening the team batting average 13 points to .267, lowering the earned run average from 3.75 to 3.06.

The pitching ace is Steve Busby. The stylish right-hander who crafted no-hitters in 1973 and '74 was sailing along toward a second straight 20-plus season when a line drive popped him on the pitching elbow.

He missed two turns and finished 18-12, but is thought to have regained top form.

The other three starters are Dennis Leonard, hard-throwing right-hander who had a sensational rookie year, Paul Splittorff, the lone left-hander, who rebounded well from a miserable beginning in 1975, and Al Fitzmorris, a sinker-balling veteran.

Doug Bird, who has anchored the bullpen for several seasons, is expected to be worked into the starting rotation "maybe by the middle of May."

Veteran right-hander Marty Pattin proved he could be the main fireman last season, and is expected to get plenty of help from lefties Ray Sadecki and Steve Mingori.

John Mayberry returns at first base with a five-year million-dollar contract in his pocket. The powerful left-hander posted a .291 batting average last year and set club records for home runs, 34, RBI, 106, total bases, 303, and slugging average, .547.

Herzog says he wouldn't trade 22-year-old George Brett for any other third baseman in baseball.

The husky Brett, who throws right and bats left, led the league in hits with 195 while batting .308. The brother of

New York Yankee pitcher Ken Brett, he possesses wide range, quick hands and a howitzer arm.

Frank White is slated to take over at second base for 38-year-old Cookie Rojas, demoted by age to a backup utility infield role and designated hitter or pinch hitter.

Frank White is slated to take over at second base for 38-year-old Cookie Rojas, demoted by age to a backup utility infield role and designated hitter or pinch hitter.

Freddie Patek returns at shortstop. Fran Healy, Buck Martinez and Bob Stinson, will battle for the catching position.

Swift Amos Otis returns to patrol center field. Herzog has decided to go with Al Cowens, a rifle-armed prospect, in right field. Hal McRae, whose .306 average was seventh in the league, will alternate between left field and designated hitter. Jim Wohlford will be the other leftfielder.

One key to the Royals' fortunes this season could be Dave Nelson, obtained from Texas for pitcher Nelson Briles. Nelson, provided he springs back from ankle surgery, is expected to add depth to the infield and consistency to the designated hitter slot.

Lemon moved to right field

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Third baseman Chet Lemon has been moved to right field by Chicago White Sox Manager Paul Richards to get more right-handed hitting in his lineup.

The Sox send a rookie team to Bradenton today to play the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Lemon, who played some outfield in the minors, was delighted with the opportunity Monday and impressed coach Jim Busby who hit a number of fly balls to the rookie slugger.

Jorge Orta, who played second base last year, is being groomed at third base, a spot left open with the departure of Bill Melton. Jack Brohammer, acquired from Cleveland, is getting a shot at second base.

On Wednesday, the Sox will split their squad with the rookies going to Orlando to play the Minnesota Twins and the veterans remaining home to play the Pirates. Wilbur Wood is scheduled to start for the veterans against the Pirates Wednesday.

North Carolina State's David Thompson in 1975 became the seventh player in modern (1948-on) history to make consensus All-America three times. The others, in order, were LaSalle's Tom Gola, Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson, Ohio State's Jerry Lucas, UCLA's Lew Alcindor, LSU's Pete Maravich and UCLA's Bill Walton.

Bartow using Wooden philosophy for Indiana

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gene Bartow is using some John Wooden philosophy as he prepares the UCLA Bruins for their rematch with Indiana in the NCAA basketball championships.

Wooden, who coached the Bruins to an incredible 10 national titles in 12 seasons, always stressed having his teams play their own style and not worry about the opponent.

But Bartow admits he took a far different approach when the Bruins opened the season against Indiana last November, a game the top-ranked Hoosiers won easily 84-64.

"I've usually never been caught up in what an opponent does," said Bartow, "but that was my first game as UCLA's coach and, as I've said, I over-prepared my team and put too much pressure on them."

Some UCLA players said after that game that they knew Indiana's plays better than their own.

This Saturday at the Spectrum in Philadelphia when the Hoosiers and Bruins meet in the NCAA semifinals, Bartow will have a different outlook.

"We're going to emphasize what UCLA can do, not what Indiana does," Bartow said Monday.

"And if we play the way we're capable of playing... I think we're going to win."

As for UCLA's practices this week, Bartow said, "We'll walk through Indiana's offense for about 10 minutes this Thursday. I think we spent about 10 hours on it the last time."

The "do it our way" style has been more apparent at UCLA since midseason when the Bruins knocked off Washington and Washington State in a pair of key games that put UCLA on top of the Pacific-8 Conference for keeps after an early-season battle.

Bartow still looks back at that first game with Indiana, however.

"Yes, losing that game was awful," said the coach who drew bitter criticism from some fans who felt strongly about anyone replacing the legendary Wooden, feelings that were made stronger by the loss to Indiana. There were even demands for his resignation — or dismissal — after that one single loss.

For this week's game, Bartow said of the Bruins:

"We're healthy, excited and it shapes up as a super game. Indiana has proven it is an excellent basketball team. They're sound in every phase of the game and have an outstanding coach in Bobby Knight."

"I've never gone into any game that I didn't think I could win and that goes for the first game with Indiana."

Phillies win 1-0

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — This is supposed to be the time baseball pitchers still can't find home plate, rookie hitting phenoms are spraying line-drive doubles all over the place and Florida exhibition games last three hours and wind up 12-9.

But this is 1976 and little, if anything, has gone according to Hoyle in major league baseball.

The Philadelphia Phillies and Detroit Tigers opened the much-delayed exhibition campaign Monday night. The pitchers were sharp, the hitters dull, the game short and the crowd large as the Phillies nipped Detroit 1-0 on a ninth-inning sacrifice fly by Jerry Martin.

The continuing contract squabble between club owners and players — which lopped more than two weeks of practice and about a dozen games off everyone's schedule — seemed ancient history.

Tourists, eager to watch some baseball, finally got the opportunity and 4,233 showed up at 4,075-seat Marchant Stadium.

"They (the owners) had a lot of expenses and it was best that we got on with the games," said Rusty Staub, who was 2-for-2 in his Tiger debut.

"We were ready enough and the Phillies felt the same way."

Detroit was originally scheduled to play Boston while the Phillies were to have hosted Minnesota. Neither of those teams felt ready for game action, since camps opened only Thursday at the command of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. Most players had been working at make-shift camps before that.

Despite the usual flood of lineup changes typical in

Meanwhile, most teams held intra-squad games Monday as managers sought to get in as much game action as possible to offset the 17-day delay in the opening of spring training camps.

Pittsburgh Pirates slugger Dave Parker arrived in the club's camp Monday, took part in an intra-squad game and belted a home run on his fourth swing of the bat.

Butch Wynegar, a 20-year-old rookie catcher, hit a grand slam home run to highlight a three-hour controlled intra-squad game held by the Minnesota Twins.

Luis Tiant, the Boston Red Sox' 35-year-old pitching ace, threw hard in batting practice for 15 minutes and then said, "I feel good. I'm more advanced right now that I was at this time last year. I worked out before I came down here, and I'm okay."

The Cleveland Indians, meanwhile, suffered their first injury of 1976 when second baseman Duane Kuiper came up with a sprained right ankle. He'll be out from three days to a week.

Big Red Machine is confident

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's Big Red Machine, supercharged by an exotic mixture in 1975, think they have the horsepower to become the first National League team in 54 years to win successive world championships.

"Our front line is the best eight men in either league," says Manager Sparky Anderson, "and our bench is now as good as anybody has in baseball."

Disinclined to tamper with success, the Reds will field essentially the same club that rumbled to 108 regular season victories — most by an NL team since 1909. They swept Pittsburgh in three straight for their third National League title in five years and shed their bridesmaid image by beating Boston in one of the most stirring World Series showdowns in history.

Anderson is counting on some minor modifications and a stronger Gary Nolan to accomplish the feat last achieved by the New York Giants in 1921-22.

To do that, Anderson is depending on his Big Three. "Just think how much fun I'm going to have making out a line-up card when I can write in the names of three Most Valuable Player winners every day," says Anderson.

Fireplug Joe Morgan joined catcher Johnny Bench and relentless Pete Rose as league MVPs, giving the Reds four such winners since 1970. The 5-foot-8 Morgan was the soul of the Cincinnati attack in 1975, hitting .327 and driving in 94 runs for career highs. His 67 stolen bases matched his professional best.

Morgan remains the catalyst, but it took a move by Anderson to turn the season around. Last May 3, he transferred Rose from left field to third base, making room for the potent bat of George Foster. Both went on to hit .300, Foster slashed 23 homers and the Reds responded by winning 41-of-50 during a torrid stretch that left the defending champion Los Angeles Dodgers 20 games behind.

The off-season changes were few, but Anderson feels they could be significant. The Reds acquired veteran slugger Bob Bailey and Mike Lum for bench depth — "the thing over the years we never had," says Anderson.

The major departure was veteran reliever Clay Carroll, who commanded the highest salary on the pitching staff. He became expendable with the emergence of youthful Rawly Eastwick and Will McEnaney, who finished 1-2 in earned run average among relievers.

Nolan looms again as perhaps the key to Cincinnati's plans. A year ago, at 27, he shook off three years of injury-induced idleness and won 15 games.

Anderson sees signs that Nolan is ready to reclaim his role as ace of the Cincinnati staff. "I've got good reports on Nolan. In fact, I'm a little scared. I've got such good reports. I've got a strong feeling he might be No. 1 this year."
